Dear Police and Law Enforcement Executive,

The annual ‘International Conference for Police & Law Enforcement Executives’ will be held in Montreal, Quebec from May 4 to 6, 2014. The conference theme is “Expect the Unexpected... It’s Not a Matter of If.” The conference will be hosted by Director Parent and the Service de police de la Ville de Montréal.

We are increasingly scrutinized for our department’s results, actions and effectiveness. We no longer have the luxury of having unlimited budgets, resources or unwavering public confidence.

Expecting the unexpected is now defining how police services are measured by stakeholders, internally and externally. In unpredictable and uncertain times, police services must be a constant source in providing public confidence while continually improving the level of performance. “Expect the Unexpected” has had significant impact on executive careers. Departments that fail to prepare suffer the unenviable consequence.

We have gathered an international panel of police executives to come from the four corners of the world to share their experiences with living “the unexpected.” The discussion promises to be dynamic, candid and open.

We look forward to seeing you in Montreal!

ABOUT THE HOST DEPARTMENT

The Service de police de la Ville de Montréal (SPVM) serves 16 cities on the island of Montréal, an area of 496 km\(^2\) with 1,981,672 citizens. The organization includes 4,500 police officers and over 1,500 civilian employees. The mission of the SPVM is to protect the lives and property of the citizens, to maintain peace and public security, to prevent and combat crime, and to uphold the prevailing laws and regulations. In partnership with the institutions, socio-economic organizations, community groups and citizens, the SPVM seeks to enhance the citizens’ quality of life by: reducing crime, increasing road safety, improving their sense of security, and developing a peaceful and safe environment.

The SPVM’s neighbourhood policing model is based on community policing and places quality relations between citizens and police officers at the very heart of police work. Since public safety is a collective responsibility shared among all the community’s stakeholders, concerted actions is key for social peace, increased sense of public security and a better community life for everyone. In this regard, the SPVM’s view on the place of the police force in society can be found in the following statement:

“At the SPVM, we are all proud to be involved in our community, for everyone to see.”

DAVID O. BROWN
Chief of Police
Dallas Police Department

Chief Brown is a twenty-nine year veteran of the Dallas Police Department. As Chief of Police, he commands a department comprised of over 4,200 employees (3,600 sworn) and oversees an annual operating budget of $410 million dollars. Chief Brown holds a Bachelor of Science degree in Business Administration and a Master of Business Administration degree in Strategic Leadership. Chief Brown is a graduate of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) National Academy, FBI National Executive Institute, Senior Management Institute for Police, the National Counter-Terrorism Seminar in Tel Aviv, Israel and the United States Secret Service Dignitary Protection Seminar in Washington, DC. He also holds Master Peace Officer and Police Instructor certifications from the State of Texas. At the request of the City Manager, Chief Brown served as an Interim Assistant City Manager for the City of Dallas and directed operations in the areas of Code Compliance, Environmental & Health Services, Equipment & Building Services, Library Services, Park & Recreation, and Cultural Affairs. These departments were comprised of approximately 2,700 employees with a combined annual operating budget of $233 million dollars.

FRANÇOIS DESCHÊNES
Assistant Commissioner
Commanding Officer, “C” Division
Royal Canadian Mounted Police

After graduating from the Royal Canadian Mounted Police Academy in 1982, Mr. Deschênes began his career in Ontario and, in the late 1990s, was transferred to Quebec. During that period, Mr. Deschênes also acted as a staff relations sub-representative. Mr. Deschênes was commissioned to the rank of Inspector in 2000, joining the “C” Division management team as the Officer-in-Charge of the Technological Crime Unit. In 2006, he was promoted to the rank of Superintendent and to the position of Officer-in-Charge of the RCMP Financial Integrity Program in Quebec. In August 2007, he was promoted to the rank of Chief Superintendent and appointed “C” Division Criminal Operations Officer. In March 2011, Assistant Commissioner Deschênes became the 29th Commanding Officer of the RCMP in Quebec. Assistant Commissioner Deschênes holds a Bachelor’s degree in Business Administration.
Mr. Dierick has held the position of Director of the Provincial Police Academy Émilien Vaes (province of Hainaut - Belgium) since October 2005. Under the authority of the provincial College and the Inspector General of the Provincial Training Institute, Mr. Dierick plans, directs and oversees all activities related to police training, outreach, organizational development and the management of the Academy. This ensures that the corporate values and quality standards are met. Mr. Dierick assumed the role of Vice President Europe in the steering committee FRANCOPOL. He is also a member of the board of the Centre for the Study of the police, location-independent reflection and debate on the issues surrounding the police. He has been involved in police training as a trainer at the Royal School of Gendarmerie. In the process of the reform of the police in Belgium, Mr. Dierick has actively participated in the working group for the revision of police training. For the sake of continued growth, this has involved many national and international partnerships for the exchange of expertise and best practices. In this context, he helped organize several workshops, seminars and international training.

Mr. Doma has worked extensively with uniformed service organizations by providing them his expertise, knowledge, and diplomatic approach in such areas as strategic planning, contract negotiations, labour relations, organizational development, and executive coaching. As a facilitator, Mr. Doma is frequently requested to facilitate executive leadership programs to international audiences. Through his ability to combine his knowledge and experience with a unique style, he is able to captivate and motivate audiences of all ranks in police, fire, and uniformed emergency services. In addition, Mr. Doma is a skilled mediator who is able to quickly identify the common ground among the parties to create strategic solutions. Some of these discussions have included regional bargaining associations for the Police Complaints Process, fire jurisdictions, and by order in council, the integration of police departments. Other achievements include the development of a five-year strategic plan for the British Columbia Association of Chiefs of Police, the integration of the Organized Crime Agency of British Columbia with the RCMP, and the development of the strategic plan for the Transit Police Service.

Dr. Friedmann is the Director of the Georgia International Law Enforcement Exchange and Professor Emeritus of Criminal Justice at Georgia State University. He was the Distinguished Chair of Public Safety Partnerships from 2007 to 2010 and served as Chair of the Criminal Justice Department from 1989 to 2002 at Georgia State University. His research interest and published work focus on community policing, terrorism, and crime analysis. He has authored several books and numerous articles and research reports on crime and criminal justice focusing on policing and public safety. He assisted in security planning and preparation for the 1996 Olympic Games (Atlanta), the G-8 (2004), and the 2012 Olympic Games (London). He served as a chair or member of several blue ribbon commissions and on the advisory board of several professional associations. He works closely with a number of police departments, in Georgia, the U.S. and internationally, on community policing and homeland security. He is the recipient of the Georgia Governor’s Public Safety Award (2008) and the J. Edgar Hoover Memorial Scholarship Award (2009).

Prior to the RCMP, Chief Superintendent Lafrance was the first woman officer to join the Mont-Laurier Quebec Police Department. In 1985, after her training at Depot, she was posted in Ontario where she worked in various sections including traffic, general investigations, VIP security and major events. In 2004 and served as a senior advisor in strategic planning at National Headquarters. She then transferred to “A” Division (now National Division) as the Executive Assistant to the Commanding Officer and Management Support Officer. In 2007, when Recruiting was at its peak, she led the Central Region Recruiting team through a very successful campaign. In early 2009, Chief Superintendent Lafrance was promoted to the rank of Inspector in 2004 and served as a senior advisor in strategic planning at National Headquarters. She then transferred to “A” Division (now National Division) as the Executive Assistant to the Commanding Officer and Management Support Officer. In 2007, when Recruiting was at its peak, she led the Central Region Recruiting team through a very successful campaign. In early 2009, Chief Superintendent Lafrance was promoted to the rank of Superintendent as the Director of the National Recruiting Program. In August 2010, she was transferred to Regina Depot Division as the Training Officer and in December 2011, Chief Superintendent Lafrance was promoted to the rank of Chief Superintendent. In June 2013, she became the 56th Commanding Officer of Depot Division.
MARIO LAPRISE
Director General
Sûreté du Québec

Mr. Laprise has been the Director of the Sûreté du Québec since October 2012. He was a police officer with the Sûreté du Québec for 26 years, up to 2005. During his tour of duty, he was assigned to different functions, such as patrol, investigations and ranking officer. Amongst these different assignments, he was captain in charge of the Carcajou unit from 1996 to 1998 and responsible for the Joint Investigation Projects Service from 1998 to 2005 with the rank of Inspector. In that role, he was the provincial coordinator for the fight against organized crime and contributed to the implantation of seven mixed regional units, symbols of police partnership. He was also one of the key players in the coordination of the police operation.

Approached by Hydro-Québec in 2005, Mr. Laprise accepted new challenges that were presented to him and took charge of the Industrial Security Unit, until his return to the Sûreté du Québec as Director. He made his mark then with his strategic vision of a security concept for enterprises. During those years, he went on to complete a public administration Master’s degree in the field of management, as well as diverse studies in specialized police functions.

NICK METZ
Assistant Chief
Seattle Police Department

Assistant Chief Metz commands the Investigations Bureau. He also oversees the Department’s Peer Support Program. Assistant Chief Metz has been with the Seattle Police Department for over 28 years. He spent four years as a Patrol Officer in the downtown corridor and Rainier Valley before becoming an Undercover Detective in Narcotics. He was promoted to Sergeant in 1989 before being assigned to work in Internal Investigations, the East Precinct Anti-Crime and Community Police Teams and the Washington State Criminal Justice Training Center (WSCJTC). After being promoted to Lieutenant in 1991, he worked again at WSCJTC, then as Watch Commander at the South Precinct. He was then selected to be the Executive Assistant to the Chief of Police. Upon his promotion to Captain in 1995, he was assigned as the Director of Human Resources, Commander of both South and East Precincts and the Internal Investigations Section. Assistant Chief Metz was promoted to his role in October 2001. Chief Metz graduated from City University with a Bachelor of Science in Law Enforcement Administration. He is a graduate of the FBI National Academy, the Senior Management Institute for Police at Boston University and a 2013 graduate of the Department of Justice/FBI’s National Executive Institute Leadership Class of XXXV.

MARC PARENT
Director
Service de police de la Ville de Montréal

Director Parent joined the Service de police de la Ville de Montréal (SPVM) in 1984, and has been the Director of the SPVM since September 2010. Director Parent graduated from the FBI National Academy at the University of Virginia in 1998. He also holds a Bachelor of Business Administration degree and a Master’s degree in Public Administration. He has held different roles varying from police officer to a member of the SWAT team as a Sergeant. The different management positions he has held since obtaining the rank of Commander in 1996 have allowed him to direct high-level strategic operations and act as SPVM’s counter-terrorism spokesman with the Northeast Regional Homeland Security Directors. As Chief of Community Service for the South region, in 2005, and then of Community Service for the North region, from 2005 to 2010, he took an innovative approach to such sensitive issues as racial profiling, drug addiction, homelessness, conjugal and intrafamily violence, prostitution, mental health, street youth and safety for the elderly.

As a Director, he relies on values based leadership, promoting respect, integrity, and a culture of performance within teams.
EMILE PEREZ
Director, International Cooperation, Ministry of the Interior, France
President, Francopol

Since September 2010, Mr. Perez has held the position of Director of International Cooperation, which is the first joint active direction of the French police and gendarmerie. He has to his credit more than 32 years of experience in the field of police and holds the rank of Inspector General of the assets of the National Police Service. Having completed a degree in mathematics and physics, Mr. Perez holds a law degree from the University of Saint-Etienne. He is also a graduate of the National Police Academy (NPHS) Saint-Cyr-au-Mont-d’Or and the Institute for Advanced Studies in the internal security of Paris. During his career, Mr. Perez has held various management positions within general information, education and training. He was also Secretary General of the Union of Commissioners and senior officials of the National Police and police attaché to the United States and Canada at the Embassy of France in Washington. Mr. Perez is involved in a variety of professional activities in addition to being the founding president of FRANCOPOL since 2008. In 2008, Mr. Perez was awarded the title of Officer of the National Order of Merit and made a knight of the Legion of Honour in 2004. He was also awarded the Medal of Honour of the National Police in 2001.

JEAN PHANEUF
Industrial Psychologist
Founding President, ANALYS

Mr. Phaneuf has acquired nearly twenty years’ experience in the field of organizational psychology and is especially interested in matters related to the evaluation and development of the potential of middle and high-level executives as well as management in an organizational context.

After completing his doctoral degree in industrial and organizational psychology at the University of Montreal in 1980, he worked in the private sector, both with Société Pierre Boucher, a consulting firm in this field, and with Autopro Inc. as Vice-President, Finance and Administration.

During this same period, from 1981 to 1986, he held positions as a course lecturer at the École des hautes études commerciales (HEC), the University of Montréal and the University of Québec at Montréal.

Since 1989, Mr. Phaneuf has been President of ANALYS, a consulting firm specializing in potential and management evaluation and organizational efficiency.

PETER SLOLY
Deputy Chief of Police
Toronto Police Service

Deputy Chief Sloly is in his 25th year with the Toronto Police Service. Prior to his policing career, he played professional soccer and was a member of the Canadian National Soccer Team. He has a Criminal Justice Education Certificate from the University of Virginia, Incident Command System Certification from the Justice Institute of British Columbia, a Bachelor of Arts in Sociology from McMaster University and a Masters in Business Administration from York University’s Schulich School of Business. He is a graduate of the Federal Bureau of Investigation (FBI) National Academy and the University of Toronto Rotman Police Executive Leadership Program.

Deputy Chief Sloly is presently in charge of the Divisional Policing Command (DPC) which has 4,084 police officers, 221 civilian members and a budget of $447 million. DPC includes 17 Police Divisions and the Divisional Police Support Unit (with the TAVIS Rapid Response & Community Mobilizations functions).

A graduate-level instructor and trainer in media relations, leadership communications and organizational marketing to the international, national, state and local law enforcement, legal, business and military communities, an adjunct faculty member of both the University of Virginia and the University of Richmond, and a consultant on high visibility communications issues, Mr. Vance's career in public information and education spans nearly four decades. Prior to becoming an educator in 1992, Mr. Vance retired from the Marine Corps following over 21 years of active duty, 16 years of which were spent in both the national and international public affairs arena. He retired as head of the Media Branch at Headquarters, Marine Corps in Washington D.C., where he was the Corps’ chief spokesman and media strategist. Since his retirement, Mr. Vance has served as communications advisor on a host of high-visibility events from the terrorist attacks of 9/11 to the Washington D.C. area sniper shootings to working with the New Orleans Police Department during post-Hurricane Katrina stabilization efforts. Today, Mr. Vance travels extensively conducting workshops and seminars in venues both national and international.

Mr. Wainwright graduated in 1989 from the London School of Economics, University of London with a Bachelor of Science degree. He worked for the following ten years as an intelligence analyst in the United Kingdom in the fields of counter-terrorism and organized crime. Between 2000 to 2003, Mr. Wainwright was the Head of the UK Liaison Bureau at Europol, and was also responsible for the Europol National Unit in London. The Liaison Bureaux is a key link in Europol's cooperation with the EU member states.

In 2003, Mr. Wainwright was promoted to the position of Director International of the National Criminal Intelligence Service (NCIS), where he was responsible for its international operations and for developing and implementing the UK strategy against facilitated illegal immigration. Between 2006 to 2009, he was Chief of the International Department of the UK Serious Organized Crime Agency. In this leading role, he was overseeing 20,000 law enforcement cases each year as well as establishing the international strategy and operational capabilities of the newly formed agency. Mr. Wainwright was appointed Director of Europol in April 2009. He is also currently an active member of the World Economic Forum, primarily on cyber issues.

In October 2009, Mr. Zaccardelli was appointed the Director of Strategic Planning Directorate for INTERPOL. In April 2008, Mr. Zaccardelli was appointed as the Director of INTERPOL’s OASIS Africa. Prior to this, in September 2000, Mr. Zaccardelli was appointed as the 20th Commissioner of the Royal Canadian Mounted Police (RCMP). In this role, Commissioner Zaccardelli was responsible for all aspects of the management and operations of the RCMP and its roughly 23,000 employees. Mr. Zaccardelli was honored with several high distinctions and is the recipient of the Principal Commander of the Order of Merit of the Police Forces, 2002; Commander of the Order of St. John of Jerusalem; the Canada 125 Medal; the Queen Elizabeth II Golden Jubilee Commemorative Medal, 2002; the RCMP Long Service Medal; the Officer of the French Legion of Honor, 2003; the Saskatchewan Centennial Medal, 2005 the Alberta Centennial Medal, 2005 and Grand Officer, Order of Merit of the Italian Republic, 2005.

      Assistant Deputy Director, National Gendarmerie, France
  ▶ Mr. Giuliano Zaccardelli, O.O.M.
      Director, Strategic Planning Directorate
      INTERPOL, France

The events in Boston, London, Newtown, Santa Monica, New York and others around the world are teaching us one thing… expect the unexpected! Police and law enforcement agencies are now tasked with getting ready for those events that cannot be anticipated or predicted. How do you get your organization prepared for these eventualities? And how do you defend against those that will find new options to cause mass terror?

10:00 AM to 11:00 AM

11:00 AM to 12:00 PM
The Problem with Stats – The New Reality
Panel Presentation
  ▶ Dr. Robert Friedmann, Ph.D.
      GILEE Founding Director, Georgia State University
  ▶ Mr. Mark Potter*
      Director General, Policing Policy, Public Safety Canada

We ask our statisticians to produce our crime statistics, and we are showing a steady decline in all areas. Leveraging more resources during times of low crime rates is typically very difficult. Politicians and community members ask why they need to spend more during periods when crime is low. Good question! But are crime rates really low or are our measures just outdated? How do you prove your department’s value in tough budgetary times when your department needs more from the public purse?

12:00 PM to 1:00 PM
Lunch Buffet & Networking

1:00 PM to 1:45 PM
Developing Your Media Strategy – Protecting Public Confidence
Panel Presentation
  ▶ Assistant Commissioner François Deschênes
      Commanding Officer, “C” Division
      Royal Canadian Mounted Police
  ▶ Lt. Col. James L. Vance, USMC (Ret.)
      FBI National Academy

Getting a handle on your media strategy can be the difference between success and failure for a Police Chief. Today it’s all about speed, positioning and messaging. Successful Chiefs know that they need to protect the “image and brand” of their police service and they work tirelessly to do so. With even the smallest departments making the national and international front pages, what does a successful media strategy look like? Can you or your department afford not to have one?
your message? What are the immediate and long term issues that other organizations have had to face? When the chips are down, can your organization step up?

6:00 PM to 9:30 PM

8:00 AM to 9:00 AM

Preparing for Mass Incidents – Lessons Learned

Panel Presentation

- Director Marc Parent
  Service de police de la Ville de Montréal
- Mr. Rob Wainwright
  Director, Europol

Natural or manmade disasters like Sandy Hook, Columbine, Oslo and the Dorner shootings are situations that you may find your department needing to respond to. These situations will garner national and international news coverage, and will require immediate response. Are your personnel trained and prepared for rapid intervention? Do you have the necessary systems set up to ensure a coordinated inter-agency response? Do you have a community strategy in place, and are you ready to face the media? Preparation is the key to maintaining public trust…will you be ready to face the inquiry?

9:00 AM to 10:00 AM

The Chief’s Contract – Your Life Line

Keynote Presentation

- Mr. Serge Amar
  Partner, Miller Thomson

When the worst happens, regardless of the manner of the death, will you and your organization be ready to provide guidance and support to those who are left behind? No one wants to discuss these issues openly, but the fact is there needs to be a plan. How will your organization provide the assistance that is required for the family, the frontline and for those who were there? What is the role of the leader and how do you convey
The Chief’s contract is the most important document that you will sign in terms of career success. Does your contract afford you the protection you require? What should go into a Chief’s contract and how do you negotiate your exit from the organization while negotiating your entrance? Do you happen to have a Good Samaritan Clause? When should you negotiate your own contract and when do you hire someone to negotiate it for you? This is the session that you don’t want to miss if you are ready to make your next move.

11:00 AM to 12:00 PM

Handling Sensitive Issues – The Achilles Heel

Panel Presentation

▸ Mr. Jean-Pierre Boesch*
  Director, Swiss Police Institute, Switzerland

▸ Deputy Chief Peter Sloly
  Toronto Police Service

Every organization has its own sensitive issues; immigration, border security, race, religion, ethnicity…and the list goes on! Any one of these issues, at any time, can ignite bringing a Chief’s career to an abrupt end. The news headlines are filled with stories of miscalculations, missed steps and just out and out blunders. Learning how to handle these sensitive issues is an art that every Police Chief should to be exposed to. These are real life case studies of how to handle these issues and the lessons learned…can you afford not to attend?

12:00 PM to 1:00 PM

Lunch Buffet & Networking

1:00 PM to 2:00 PM

Taking Care of Your Troops – When Things Go Wrong

Panel Presentation

▸ Chief Superintendent Louise Lafrance
  Commanding Officer, “Depot” Division
  Royal Canadian Mounted Police

▸ Ms. Lola Vallès*
  Director of Research and International Cooperation,
  Institute of Public Security of Catalonia, Spain

The reality is that things will go wrong. Critical incidents are the norm. You handle them on a daily basis, but what are the long term effects on the individual officer? There are too many stories about how stress and anxiety are affecting officers on the frontline. While suicide, alcoholism and drug addiction intern more of our troops, we are slowly reducing resources that can be used for assistance programs and employees’ health. The job is not getting simpler…it’s getting more complicated. We are consistently asking more of our officers while they’re running on empty. How are we taking care of our troops?

2:00 PM to 2:45 PM

Chief Selection – Increasing your Chances

Keynote Presentation

▸ Mr. Jean Phaneuf, Industrial Psychologist
  Founding President, ANALYS

This is it! This is the opening that you have been waiting for. Everything has to go right...everything from research, resume, interview, references, contract negotiations and the list grows...will you be ready? The board will scrutinize every process, every conversation, every document presented. It will be a slow and arduous process involving consequences...lots of consequences! How will you inform your own organization that you want to leave, and if you do get the job, could it be the WRONG job for you? What are the lessons learned and how do you increase your chances of getting the right job in the right community?

2:45 PM to 3:00 PM

Closing Remarks

Note: This agenda was developed in cooperation with the Canadian Association of Chiefs of Police, the Service de police de la Ville de Montréal, and Canadian Professional Management Services.
